

Education

Written by Administrator
Thursday, 29 April 2010 15:59

Enabling you to provide a safe, fast & secure learning experience.

Schools, colleges and universities are experiencing some of the most rapid growth in demand for broadband applications. Internet connectivity is no longer simply a requirement for administration and ICT departments, but is at the core of virtually every teaching unit, from languages to art and history. Estimations are that virtually every desk in every classroom may feature a fully connected workstation within the next 10 years, all requiring broadband access!

As part of the EDI group of companies, Fusion is at the forefront of delivering cost effective solutions to meet the current needs of an educational establishment, whilst providing the scalability to increase bandwidth requirements on demand at very short notice - in many cases as quickly as 48 hours.

Fusion delivers a vast range of connectivity solutions to the education sector. Our Account Managers are all experienced in the processes involved in the ordering and delivering of public sector services, and will be pleased to provide as much advice and consultancy as required well in advance of provisioning a service, ensuring you are armed with all the facts when considering a new supplier.

Contact Fusion account managers to discuss your bespoke requirements today.